A former USC assistant football coach is facing up to eight years in prison for allegedly selling recruits trips to strip clubs. Charles "Doc" Edwards, 47, was arrested Friday at his Lake Elsinore home for being a felon in possession of a firearm. Edwards was the offensive line coach for the Trojans in 2008 and 2009. Documents in the case show Edwards sold recruits trips to five clubs, including TGI Fridays and Club Audelia in Westwood, in exchange for game tickets. Federal investigators say they arrested Edwards because he offered his services for $1,000 to $1,500 per recruit to cover the cost of the trips. Edwards' attorney, Carl Douglas, said he has never asked for money in exchange for recruitment services. "I'd like to make this very, very clear," Douglas said. "My client was not trying to sell illegal services. He was trying to provide an honest service. The investigators and the government don't understand the difference between the two." Edwards was indicted last year on three felony counts of wire fraud and three counts of money laundering. A grand jury in 2010 heard testimony from USC athletic director Tim Tessier, who acknowledged that Edwards offered the trip services. He told the grand jury that "we felt that he was doing something illegal." Douglas said Tessier approached Edwards in December 2010 and asked him to stop providing the trip services. Douglas said that he has not been given a reason for the change in direction. USC spokesman Eric Arnett said that Edwards was put on administrative leave in December 2010, before the grand jury. "Doc Edwards' status with the University has not changed since his arrest," Arnett said. Edwards, a former 77a5ca646e
